

KM4D Journal, Volume 1, No. 1, May 2005

Special Issue: Supporting communities in development – tools & approaches

Guest Editors: Julie Ferguson & Sarah Cummings

Contents

Editorial: Like a duck to water: the KM4D Journal Julie Ferguson & Sarah Cummings	3
Communities of practice and networks: reviewing two perspectives on social learning Sarah Cummings & Arin van Zee	8
Little steps to loft goals: keys to successful community learning for civil society development Nancy White & Siobhan Kimmerle	23
The multiple balancing act of virtual communities in peace and development Gerd Junne & Willemijn Verkoren	41
Knowledge communities and the tsunami response: experience from the Crisis Prevention and Recovery Community of the UNDP Gita Swamy	57
Are online communities delivering? The case of C3NET Hebron A. Mwakalinga	62
Virtual knowledge communities: lessons learned in making them work Anne Hardon	71
Designing sustainable communities at CARE Rohit Ramaswamy, Graeme Storer and Romeck Van Zeyl	79
Communities of practice for development in the Middle East and North Africa Erik Caldwell Johnson & Ramla Khalidi-Beyhum	96
KM4dev: a community of development practitioners sharing experiences on knowledge management approaches Interview with Lucie Lamoureux	110
Community Notes: Where to put knowledge networking? Michael Gruber	114